

Free fashion advice

December 15th, 2009 by Caryn Franklin
Go on - leave a comment

I'll happily give you some free fashion advice because tis the season for giving and I am loving the tinsel round my desk!

Why not cash in on the celebrity fashion trend for special occasions and borrow your clothes! They of course get their stylists to ring up the PR offices but if you fancy Christmas with McQueen and you like the idea of a designer library where you can borrow to your hearts content, then this next steer is right up your isle!

Yes, I'm talking about designer-frock 'lending and borrowing,' for Christmas and of course at any time in 2010 for that matter. So if you fancy arriving disarmingly Armani to the office party or parading some vintage Christian Lacroix on Christmas Eve, 'Dressed up to the 9's,' is a cleverly conceived site that will do more than nicely for your frock related needs!

You can register free and a new dress is yours for the week, for about £35.00, alternatively in a completely 'economy savvy,' moment, you can rent out your own. Simply take a photo of your lending stock and upload.

Let the party begin!

Don't miss a post!

Receive my latest posts automatically

Prefer email? Just enter your email address below:

\(Privacy Statement\)

Recent Posts

Free fashion advice

Maximum Impact

A leather dress to impress

A handy tunic style is as near to perfect as it gets

Diva alert

Recent Comments

denise pia: Hi, Its always difficult to know how to dress for a party. You