

You are here: Home > News > Fashion News

WIN a £500 shopping spree at Selfridges

DON'T MISS 5 MUST-READ STORIES TODAY

 1. SEE all the must-have pieces from Kate Moss's brand new Topshop colle...
Read more

 2. Wrap up warm in one our fashion editors' favourite winter coats - the...
Read more

 3. SEE all the fashion hits and misses from this weekend's X Factor
Read more

 4. Victoria Beckham shows off softer new hairstyle
Read more

5. It's finally

HOT NEW DRESS-HIRE WEBSITE LAUNCHES

 Print  Share  Comment

Ever wished you could get more mileage out of the designer splurges languishing in your wardrobe? Well now you can.

New dress-hire website dresseduptothe9s.com works like a high-end dress exchange. Once you register, you can upload pics of your best designer pieces and put them on the site for other fashionistas to hire - just follow the pricing guidelines on the site.

Items are hired for a week at a time and must be returned to you fully dry-cleaned.

Of course, as a member you can also browse other people's high-end gems - for as little as £35 per week (including courier fees), you could be borrowing someone else's good-as-new Temperley dress or Herve Leger body-con frock for your office Christmas party.

Just like raiding your sister's wardrobe - only better...

Monday 26 October 2009

HAVE YOUR SAY ...

Add your own comment

SEARCH

BREAKING HEADLINES ...

- ▶ Robert Pattinson denies romance with Kristen Stewart
- ▶ Pics: Coleen & Wayne leave hospital with baby Kai
- ▶ New anti-ageing craze: Dracula therapy
- ▶ Is this Lady Gaga's weirdest look yet?
- ▶ SNEAK PEAK! Behind the scenes on Jennifer Lopez's fragrance photoshoot

